IN SYRIA

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY,

- Observing that the ongoing civil war is severely affecting people in the Middle East, preventing them from living in peace,
- Noting that the State of Israel is part of the countries of the Near East which is suffering from the instability of the region and prevents it from living in peace and in prospering economically,
- Remarking that this war causes the deaths of innocents and provokes violence, instability and insecurity amongst the population, destroying the economy of the territories of the fractured nation, that Europe is not in a position to welcome the refugees and that their integration into the Bulgarian and international society would be complex due to different ethnicities,
- Noting that the governmental forces, supported by Russia and Iran are occupying Syria,
- Considering that no military intervention should take action without the authority of the United Nations but equally that in the case of Syria, as in many others, the UN Security Council is immobilized by the veto system,
- Guaranteeing that the new nation would be rebuilt and that the rate of migration would decrease noticeably,
- Resolve to decrease the instability reigning within the Middle East;
- to strengthen the military presence of the US, by forming an international coalition in which Israel shall play a deciding role in supporting the free democratic forces of Syria;
 - to financially support the new Syrian State under the supervision of the UN, Israel and Bulgaria emulating the Marshall Plan, specifying that no country, apart from Syria, will benefit from this project to return Syrian refugees scattered across the globe.
